

Leadership and Advocacy:
Become a Change Agent

Develop a strong professional identity in a program committed to social justice

International exposure
through NBCC International

RESEARCH:
Cultivate and Focus
Your Research
Agenda

Developmental course sequence

Join faculty with similar interests in year-long apprenticeship

Research teams
available

Find
Your Purpose
Here

Full-time,
3-year Program

COUNSELING:

Enhance Your Clinical Skills

Doctoral practicum and internship at student-
selected sites

TEACHING: Develop and hone your teaching skills and
specialized knowledge

Undergraduate
and graduate level
teaching experiences

SUPERVISION: Gain Hands-on Experience Within a Collaborative,
Supportive Framework

Dedicated supervision course and clinical supervision internships

PhD in Counseling and Counselor Education

2019

UNC GREENSBORO

Department of Counseling and Educational Development

Mentoring

Faculty serve as intentional mentors and diverse role models

Opportunities to get to know all faculty before selecting doctoral committee

Developmental Sequencing

Intentional, process-oriented sequence of coursework, internships and assistantships

“I really appreciate how process-oriented the program is, grounded in a counseling approach!”

Brittany Wyche,
Doctoral Student

Nationwide Alumni Network

Funding

$15,000 Assistantship minimum with more funding possible (Graduate School scholarships)

Out-of-state and in-state tuition waivers

Office space included

Find
Your Place
Here

Employment

Counselor Educators

Clinical Researchers

Advanced Practitioners and Consultants

Administrators in Student Services

“The opportunity to teach my own course and to supervise my own section of internship as a doctoral student prepared me for my first counselor educator position.”

Catherine Chang '98,
Professor,
Georgia State University

Contact us to learn more!

CED Admissions Office

336.334.3434

ced@uncg.edu

“Critical thinking and analytical skills [learned at UNCG] have increased my productivity as a researcher and writer.”

Cheryl Holcomb-McCoy '96,
Dean, School of Education
American University