COURSE PREREQUISITES & CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Prerequisites: Phase 2 completion and a B or better in CON 5371 and CON 5372. This class gives an opportunity for advanced candidates in counseling to demonstrate the ability to perform all counseling duties and responsibilities with individuals and groups in their applied sites. The internship is a 600-hour total field placement experience which may be completed in a single semester or over the course of two semesters.

COURSE GOALS:

The purpose of this course is for students to engage in professional practice in their designated specialty area and apply the foundational and contextual skills learned in previously or concurrently completed coursework.

Professional practice provides for the application of theory and the development of counseling skills under supervision. These experiences will provide opportunities for students to counsel student-clients who represent the ethnic and demographic diversity of their community. The internship provides an opportunity for the student to perform, under supervision, a variety of counseling activities that a professional counselor is expected to perform. Begun after successful completion of the practicum, the internship is intended to reflect the comprehensive work experience of a professional counselor appropriate to the designated program area.

The overall internship is a 600-hour field placement experience. Forty percent (40%) of your time spent at your site should be direct contact with clients (240 direct hours for a 600-hour internship; 120 direct hours for a 300-hour internship) [2024 CACREP Std. 4.U-V].

As a part of the Case Presentation, CMHC Interns are required to complete two individual clinical intake assessments with two clients in the field. CMHC Interns demonstrate they are able to understand and diagnose clients presenting issues and problems using the Individual Clinical Intake Assessment and Comprehensive Clinical Assessment (CCA). The results of the assessment help interns identify the specific DSM-5 diagnosis and ICD codes and develop evidence-based goals for treatment and interventions for the clients as evident in their tape critiques and analysis. Further, the university supervisor shall lead a discussion on caseload management. Interns discuss how they will use caseload management with current clients and/or clients in the future. (See Question 2B on the Tape Critique/Analysis Form and two Comprehensive Clinical Assessments)

CACREP Standard 5.C.5 “Techniques and interventions for prevention and treatment of a broad range of mental health issues;” is addressed with the following course activities: Tape Analysis-Critique, Group Discussions, and Case Presentations.

During weekly group discussions, CMHC Interns discuss real-life clinical cases from their field site experiences including symptom presentation, diagnostic criteria, treatment, and interventions implemented at the site and evidence-based approaches that cover a broad range of mental health issues. (See Question 4 and 8 on the Tape Analysis form)

CACREP Standard 5.C.6. “Strategies for interfacing with the legal system regarding court-referred clients;” is addressed with the following course activities: Site Presentation, Assigned Reading, and Group Discussion. Instructors and students discuss the degree to which legal processes will impact the treatment and consider issues that may impact the client functioning in treatment, and the implications of treatment interventions on the legal processes. (See ACA Counseling Today’s Stuck in the Middle).

CACREP Standard 5.C.7. “Strategies for interfacing with integrated behavioral health care professionals;” is addressed with the following course activities: Group Discussion and Assigned Reading.

COURSE POLICIES AND EXPECTATIONS

Counseling Department Attendance Policy for Internship Class:

Aside from successfully completing the required site internship hours and obtaining an hour of weekly supervision from site supervisors, student interns are also required by CACREP to have weekly group supervision from the university internship supervisor. Interns may not miss more than 2 class meetings. If a student misses more than 2 internship class meetings, they can be dropped from the course and/or not receive a passing grade for the course.

*Please note that for field experience courses, such as this internship course, attendance policies are more specific than the university attendance policy listed later in this syllabus.

Academic Honesty Policy

North Carolina Central University views academic honesty as a critical value protecting the transmission of knowledge. Academic dishonesty is a serious violation and includes providing/receiving unauthorized assistance with papers, projects, and exams; presenting, as one's own, another's words/ideas without acknowledgement; presenting the same papers/projects for credit in two classes without explicit professor permission; and using undocumented internet information. Academic dishonesty will result in a grade of "F" in the course.

Policy on Incomplete Grade

Grades of "Incomplete" are not assigned in this course or other field experience courses in the Counselor Education Program.

For other courses in CEP, however, students who desire to receive a grade of "Incomplete" should submit a written request to the instructor. Students may be given a grade of "Incomplete" (I) at the discretion of the instructor when not all of the work required in the course has been completed for reasons beyond the control of the student (At least 80% of the work for the course should be completed). All "Incomplete" grades must be completed according to the agreement between the student and the instructor within the deadline established by the instructor, not to exceed one calendar year from the end of the semester in which the student was enrolled in the course. In general, incomplete grades will not be assigned for counseling internship.

Guidelines for Online "Class" Etiquette, Discussion, and Communication

Any information shared within this course is to remain confidential. You can find information about video conference etiquette here:

<http://www.nccucounseling.com/student2/index.php/videoconference-etiquette>.

Students are expected to present to class dressed professionally and remain attentive for the duration. Audio and video connections are required. This means, if you are inattentive, doing other things on your computer or in the space around you, you are not in compliance with the course expectations.

It is expected that students will check email at least once daily. Should students have any questions or concerns please feel free to contact the instructor via email (best way to contact) or office phone.

Everyone will respect each other in the classroom. There are always a diversity of experiences and values. I expect that we will all respect others and be mindful of others.

Controversial topics and/or opinions may arise during class discussion that may cause strong feelings or emotions. It is important that any debate of these topics and opinions be discussed in a respectful and courteous manner. Please be mindful, respectful, and courteous of others as you are communicating in class.

It is important that there be respectful and conscientious dialogue in class.

Confidentiality

Much of our class discussion and most of the written work you do for this class will contain information about clients, and sometimes sensitive information about your supervisor and internship site. All of this information is privileged. We share responsibility for maintaining its confidentiality and protecting the privacy of our clients, classmates, host sites, and sometimes supervisors and other professionals.

Guidelines for fulfilling our responsibilities in this regard include the following matters.

- Written materials (e.g., special projects, tape critiques, etc.) referring to clients should either refer to them by initials only or by a pseudonym. If the materials are copied and contain the client's name, the name should be blocked out with a black felt tip pen if possible so that you cannot see the name.
- Video and audio recordings of client counseling sessions should be kept secure and should be erased after instructional and supervisory reviews are completed.
- Video and audio recordings should not be sent via email or uploaded in Canvas. You will submit them via NCCU Shared Drive as directed by your university/faculty supervisor.
- Classroom/office doors will be closed when we are discussing cases or viewing videos of actual clients. This includes scheduled and impromptu supervision or consultation meetings.
- Guests such as students from other environments or classes, prospective students, family members, or children may not be brought to class. This means, they may not be in the same room/meeting space with you while you are meeting with your university supervisor.
- All assignments should be uploaded into Canvas and sometimes to Task Stream. Any time you mention a client in your project, you should utilize either their initials or a pseudonym.
- All client records are the property of your internship site. No client records or files of information from your internship site are to be kept in your personal possession (e.g., your car or home or stored on your personal electronic devices) except for the temporary necessity of carrying selected copies of information on which identifying information has been removed or thoroughly covered.
 - Any departure from strict adherence to this must be fully disclosed and agreed to by your site supervisor and your campus supervisor. This includes retaining copies of records belonging to the site. Violations of this policy may have significant legal and ethical consequences and may put the completion of your internship at risk.
- All written materials from your internship setting (typically copies of case notes and treatment plans) should be returned to the files of your internship site after being reviewed by the faculty supervisor/instructor and returned to you. If they are not returned to the files of your internship site, they are to be destroyed. Under no circumstances are any of these site-based materials to remain in your personal possession.

TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS & EXPECTATIONS FOR SYNCHRONOUS VIDEO SUPERVISION

Technical Specifications related to our Course Supervision

- Individual and group meetings will be held using WebEx videoconferencing software. It is available (for free) in desktop, laptop, tablet, and smartphone formats.
- If you will use a desktop or laptop computer, you can enter a test meeting at any time (to test your equipment): <https://www.webex.com/test-meeting.html>
- If using a smartphone or tablet, download the Zoom app. Search your app store for "Zoom".
- Connection will require a private, stable, high-speed internet connection. Use of cellular phones in open spaces is not appropriate for this course.
- Please make sure that you have a working microphone and video camera enabled on whatever computer or device that you will use to connect. Video and audio are required. Once you enter the meeting space, you will need to activate or enable both your audio and video.

Responsibilities and Requirements for Video-based Individual Supervision

- Each student is responsible for ensuring that they have the software and devices necessary to participate in every supervision meeting. Please make other arrangements if your devices or internet connection are not working properly. There is always a solution.
- Each person (student and supervisor/instructor) is required to use headphones or earbuds for every supervision meeting. This is important for technical reasons (to reduce audio feedback), but it is also important for confidentiality purposes.
- When participating in supervision, students should be at a location that provides a private, stable, high speed internet connection.

- When participating in a supervision meeting, the student should be located in a private and closed room (i.e., behind a closed door, just like you were meeting with the instructor in her campus office). You should NOT be located in a public setting, where others may hear the conversation. If at home, you will need to ensure that you have a private and undisturbed environment in which to meet. If your computer is located in a common room, you will need to ensure that you are meeting during a time in which no one else is home. You will be playing recordings of your counseling sessions during individual supervision meetings, and you MUST ensure the confidentiality of your client recordings.
- Turn off (or mute) all telephones, televisions, music players.
- Please treat each supervision meeting as you would if you had an appointment scheduled with your faculty supervisor at a campus location. The technology that is used to hold our meetings can be a bit deceptive regarding boundaries, because:
 - you may be located in a familiar and relaxing environment (e.g., your home)
 - you do not have to travel to a campus or professional location for supervision.
- People have been known to dress very casually (e.g., pajamas), conduct other household chores while meeting for supervision (e.g., washing dishes), or show up late for a scheduled meeting. A good rule to live by: Do not dress in any way – or engage in any activities – that you wouldn't do if you were physically sitting beside the faculty supervisor/instructor on campus or meeting with the Chancellor or University President in their office.
- You are required to maintain appropriate professional boundaries related to our supervision time. Show up on time for our meetings, dress professionally, and stay focused and attentive to our conversation. Failure to present yourself appropriately will result in a reduction of participation points or being counted as absent from the course meeting.

If your site has a student intern form, please use that form. Please have the permission to record form/consent form kept at the site. Please check with your site supervisor about where those permissions to record forms should go at your site. Some recordings will be listened to during group meetings, typically 10 minutes clips. Please do not provide any information that might identify the client in the recording. Every effort should be made to start recording at your site as soon as possible, and to follow the timeline for due dates of recordings. Ideally, you want to wait to submit your next session, until after you have had a chance to discuss your recording with your university supervisor. It is not acceptable to record all 6 sessions during a short span of time. Recordings submitted for review must be from sessions that have occurred within the 7 calendar days prior to submission. This means, regardless of 'due date', you may not use early recordings for later submissions. Reviews should be current. At least two recordings shall be accompanied by a typewritten case conceptualization/presentation (discussed later).

Submit a minimum of 6 digital recordings (see departmental website for recommended digital voice recorder) with a digitally written critique of your skills. You are required to listen to your own recordings in their entirety and evaluate the recording prior to submitting it. Critique forms are available on the course website and within this syllabus. You should spend quite a bit of time listening and learning from your recordings before they are ever submitted to your instructor. Be detailed – and honest with yourself in your self-critique and include the time stamp of where you used a skill or would like specific assistance. A critique is not simply a time where you point out what you think you did correctly. It is about learning from what you have done so you may evaluate ways to improve your work. You should have your typed critique at the time of presentation (Please review Appendix B and Appendix C at the end of the syllabus). We will not listen to your tape without the written critique. Be prepared to give a brief oral presentation to the supervision group about your case/recording. Have your recording cued to a section that you would like feedback. All recording critiques MUST be uploaded to Canvas by Sunday before you present the recording to receive credit for the submission. Please ensure the critique form is properly labeled and has the file name of the recording you will have uploaded to NCCU Shared Drive (the instructor will send you an invite).

DO NOT email your recording or critique as an attachment to the instructor, as email is not a secure means of information exchange. It is your responsibility to ensure the security of all client information. Each recording and critique combination is worth up to 25 points. For recordings not presented during group supervision, the faculty supervisor/instructor will listen to your recording and provide you with written feedback (your critique form will be assessed with comments in Canvas). Any recordings deemed to be "below standard" by the faculty supervisor will need to be repeated. You will be notified if recordings need to be repeated, and individual assistance will be provided to ensure you understand the skills required for "at standard" work.

Case Presentations and Comprehensive Clinical Assessments

You are required to submit two case presentations on two different clients. The two recordings you submit for case presentations may be the same as two of your required tape reviews. Note that you will need to fill out both the tape analysis/review form and complete the written Case Presentation (see Appendix B and Appendix C at the end of the syllabus). [For CMHC Interns: You must complete and submit two Comprehensive Clinical Assessment (CCA)/Intake Assessment (CACREP 5.C.4). Utilize the template provided by your site.

In preparing for your case presentation, you should select a client with whom you are having some difficulty. Please include a brief audio/video presentation of the chosen session of at least 10 minutes. Please include a brief audio/video presentation of the chosen session of at least 10 minutes (do not embed it in the PPT). This leaves the majority of the time for feedback and comments from your peers and supervisor. Your case presentation should include the following found in Appendix C Guidelines for Case Presentations (15-20 min presentation).

Final Defense for Graduating Students Only (Pass or Re-Present based on Rubric for all; KPI # 6)

All students will be required to create a presentation (i.e. PowerPoint, Prezi, etc.) to present in front of the internship University Supervisor/faculty. The presentation should demonstrate competency in the program curriculum, in particular your Degree Program Learning Outcomes and curriculum. Graduating students will choose either a client from their case load at their current site OR 1 out of 4 case studies, which have been developed by the directors of the specialty programs. You will be given the Honor Code agreement, case studies, questions, and instructions by your instructor within the first week of the semester. You will inform your instructor if you plan to use a client or a client from one of the case studies.

You will answer a series of questions based on your client or the person(s) in the case study. Interns are asked to utilize information and skills learned in both core and specialty area classes. Your presentation should include references to specific knowledge, skills, material and/or assignments presented in those classes. You may (should) also supplement your presentation with scholarly research in the existing within the literature. This presentation should be no more than 20 minutes. The course instructor will evaluate your presentation at that time and give you feedback. If you do not achieve a successful evaluation of your case presentation or are not successful in passing the final defense, then you must represent and re-do a portion of and/or all of your presentation based on your client or select the existing case study to demonstrate mastery of PLOs. If you are graduating, you must pass the Final Defense to successfully complete the internship course.

- Final Defense Presentations are due Week 9 (Presentations Week 9 & 10 depending on number of students graduating.)

ADDITIONAL FINAL DEFENSE INSTRUCTIONS & EVALUATION FOR GRADUATING STUDENTS

The Final Defense is used to measure track PLOs as a required culminating experience for graduating students only. Each graduating student will be required to prepare a 20-minute presentation (e.g. PowerPoint, Prezi, etc.) demonstrating their knowledge and skills according to the Specialty Area Program Learning Outcomes. Currently, dual majors are required to complete only one of these. Students will use either a client whom they are working with or one of the case studies developed by the director of the specialty area. Students MUST address ALL questions even if their client is not presenting with that issue. ALL aspects of the PLO questions must be incorporated as if your client was dealing with the issue—students must extrapolate.

Students are expected to be at the Surpasses (Score of 5) or Meet Standards (Score of 4) level by Phase III (Final Defense). A score of 3 or lower indicates that the student must re-present. The presiding faculty will create a developmental plan which indicates the student's weaknesses from the presentation. You are to adhere to the Honor Code. Please see Canvas for the documentation to complete the Final Defense.

Counselor educators are responsible for preparing counseling students that have the required knowledge, skills, and professional dispositions to become effective professional counselors. During your clinical internship experience, we will work together to assess your continued growth in providing an empathic and supportive counseling environment for your clients, characterized by positive professional behavior, beneficence, adherence to ethical standards, and flexibility. Professional dispositions also include the attitudes, values, and beliefs demonstrated through both verbal and nonverbal behaviors of counselors when interacting/counseling/consulting with faculty, clients, field site staff, and other stakeholders. These positive behaviors support counselor learning and development and positive client outcomes.

Dispositions and academic preparation are areas of evaluation on your evaluations. We will use these evaluations to discuss your current readiness for the field of professional practice, as well as create an environment designed to demonstrate the importance of continued professional development and supervision to support your ongoing growth. See below for more information on professional dispositions assessed from observable behaviors(s) in the work setting and educational settings.

Excerpts from the Counseling Student Handbook

Academic expectations and policies

The Counselor Education Program follows the universities policies regarding academic requirements. The University recognizes the grades that follow in the evaluation of the performance of graduate students: A= Work of superior quality

B= Satisfactory passing work

C= Low passing work

I= Work that has not been fully completed. A grade of I is only given in extreme circumstances. (This does not apply to a thesis. The work must be completed within one year of the grade or the course will have to be repeated for credit.)

W= Represents withdrawal from all courses for the semester

WC= Represents withdrawal from the course

F= Failure

NF= Represents a course in which the student stopped attending classes without officially dropping the class; counts as a failing grade

Dispositions

The NCCU Counselor Education Program is committed to admitting, retaining, and graduating students who are a good fit for the nature of the work of being a capable counselor. We have university policies surrounding academic expectations, GPA, and standing in the program. Each student is assigned an academic advisor who will regularly meet with them for academic planning and performance. Sometimes a student might find challenges with being in the role of a counselor. The student may recognize these difficulties or they may receive feedback from faculty and others in the field indicating the counseling role may not be the best career option and fit. We are concerned about the well-being of our students and their readiness to engage in the responsibilities and ethics of counseling. The faculty serves as gate-keepers for the counseling profession, meaning we are ethically bound to discern best fit in terms of attitudes, characteristics, skills, judgment, and dispositions. We assess these non-academic but essential factors from the onset of applicant interest in the program and during the application interview.

In some cases, however, dispositions reveal themselves after admission is granted. Faculty discusses the progress of each student on a regular basis and any concerns are addressed with a plan of action for remediation and re-evaluation. The program also has formal points of review. One critical evaluation occurs at the Mid-Program Review which occurs after Phase I classes are completed and the student is moving from Pre-Practicum into Practicum. This review allows the faculty to endorse students for readiness to engage in field supervision. If the student is not assessed as ready for site placement, a remediation plan is put into action with a written contract specifying what needs to be done and within what timeframe. The advisor serves as the contact person as the action plan unfolds.

It is important that you understand the critical nature of the dispositions factor. As gatekeepers, faculty use best judgment in protecting the public from any questionable characteristic or behavior of a counselor-in-training that could impair professional and ethical service to clients. Faculty will give direct feedback when necessary and will direct the student toward resources that could help the student develop greater fit or redirect his/her career direction. The action plan could include not allowing the student to move ahead into supervised field experience.

Faculty works with any student who is assessed to have these kinds of difficulties and options for remediation and remedy are given to the student with an appropriate timeframe before another evaluation is made. If at any time during the student's training with the program faculty receive information about unethical professional behavior or if the student is unwilling to comply with the requirements of the stated remediation plan in order to address fit for service, the student can be dismissed from continuation in the program.

NCCU POLICIES AND RESOURCES

NCCU ATTENDANCE POLICY

Class attendance is expected of students at North Carolina Central University and represents a foundational component of the learning process in both traditional on-campus and online courses. Students should attend all sessions of courses for which they are registered for the entire scheduled period and are responsible for completing all class assignments. Instructors will keep attendance records in all classes. Instructors must clearly state on the syllabus how class attendance will factor into the final grade for the course. Faculty will include a written statement of the attendance guidelines in their course syllabi and will review the guidelines during the first-class session. As of Fall 2017 NW and NF attendance grades will no longer be assigned.

If a student misses three consecutive class meetings, or misses more classes than the instructor deems advisable, in addition to entering the information into Grades First, the instructor will report the facts to the student's academic dean for appropriate follow-up. Students who miss class to participate in university-authorized activities are given excused absences for the missed class time. It is the student's responsibility to inform the instructor of such activities at least one week before the authorized absence, and to make up all work as determined by the instructor.

STATEMENT OF INCLUSION/NON-DISCRIMINATION

North Carolina Central University is committed to the principles of affirmative action and non-discrimination. The University welcomes diversity in its student body, its staff, its faculty, and its administration. The University admits, hires, evaluates, promotes, and rewards on the basis of the needs and relevant performance criteria without regard to race, color, national origin, ethnicity, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, disability, genetic information, veteran's status, or religion. It actively promotes diversity and respectfulness of each individual.

STUDENT ACCESSIBILITY SERVICES (formerly Student Disability Services)

Students with disabilities (physical, learning, psychological, chronic or temporary medical conditions, etc.) who would like to request reasonable accommodations and services under the Americans with Disabilities Act must register with the Office of Student Accessibility Services (SAS) in Suite 120 in the Student Services Building. Students who are new to SAS or who are requesting new accommodations should contact SAS at (919) 530-6325 or sas@nccu.edu to discuss the programs and services offered by SAS. Students who are already registered with SAS and who would like to maintain their accommodations must renew previously granted accommodations by visiting the SAS website at www.nccu.edu/sas and logging into Eagle Accommodate. Students are expected to renew previously granted accommodations at the beginning of each semester, preferably during the first two (2) weeks of class. Reasonable accommodations can be requested at any time throughout the semester; however, they will not be effective retroactively. Students are strongly encouraged to contact their professors to discuss the testing and academic accommodations that they anticipate needing for each class.

Students identifying as pregnant or other pregnancy-related conditions who would like to request reasonable accommodations and services under Title IX must register with SAS.

CONFIDENTIALITY and MANDATORY REPORTING

Progress Notes Guidelines

1. Please make sure to complete all areas required and sign every case note with credentials if appropriate. 2. In the “Type of Service” section, make sure to indicate the appropriate recipient of services. The “Other” category is for you to indicate other modalities of contact with clients such as phone calls, letters, or any other forms of communication with clients approved by the clinical supervisor.
2. When writing your case notes, make sure to include, as a minimum, the following areas:

- a. Subjective Report: In this section of the case note, provide a general description of the client's feelings, homework report, concerns, problems expressed, thoughts, and any other relevant information reported by the client during the counseling session. Examples of specific ways of phrasing such reports are:
- The client reported ...
 - The client stated...
 - The client expressed...
 - The client declared...
- b. Objective Report: There are at least three types of information that you can report in this section of the case note: Client's objective reports (description of specific objective information reported by the client such as mood scale reports, test results, surveys, and anything that the client has objectively measured), clinician's empirical observations (any mental status information, adherence to treatment reports, strengths, assessment of progress towards goals/objectives, and interpersonal or physical findings relevant to treatment), and outside documented reports (mental health diagnostic reports, psychological reports, psychiatric reports, school reports, medical information and any other outside reports that would be relevant for treatment). When reporting empirical observations of the client's mood it is recommended to use the formula:
- The client appeared to be as evidenced by
 - The client seemed to be as reflected by
 - The client gave the impression to be as indicated by
- c. Focus of the Session: In this section of the case note, provide a brief description of the "working stage" of the counseling session. If clinically relevant, report on specific strategies for change, interventions, primary and secondary themes, activities, as well as goals and or objectives addressed (from the treatment plan). If possible, make sure to report on the client's response to any strategy used. When reporting on the focus of the session it is recommended to use the formula:
- The focus of the session was
 - The target for this session was
 - The focal point of this session was
 - The goal or objective of the session was
- d. Plan: In this section of the case note, provide a brief description of the next steps to follow in working with this client. Report on what you expect to be the focus of the next session, the next goal or objective to be addressed, the next topic to be covered, etc. A regular formula when reporting on this section is:
- The plan is to continue working on
 - The next step in treatment is to
 - In the next session, the focus will be on
 - The goal or objective for next session is to
- e. Homework (HW)/Practice: In this section of the case note, describe what the client has agreed to do in order to put in practice what has been worked on during the session. A formula for reporting on this section is:
- As a homework, client is to

- HW: Client is to
- As a practice exercise, client will

3. As a counselor in training, you are expected to report systematically on every one of the areas identified in this progress note format (Subjective, objective, focus, plan & homework). This will help you develop a more structured approach in documenting the work that you do with your clients. You don't have to necessarily address all the components within each area but only those that are clinically relevant.

4. When you want to correct something that you have written use the "legal method". Draw a line across the word or phrase and initial it (BP). Do not use "white-out" under any circumstance (See case note example). 6.

Write your case note as a continuous paragraph without leaving any spaces between phrases or after a period. If you have left any spaces between lines draw a horizontal or diagonal line (if more than one empty writing line) over the open writing space and initial it. (--- BP). This would be a legal protection for a clinical record so information cannot be added after the case note is complete.

5. If a client does not show up for a session or cancels a session document it in the case notes. Also, make sure to document any phone calls and any other attempts to reach your client. No case note should be left without a note or the corresponding signatures, particularly if the client has missed the session. When you call, remember not to leave any explicit messages unless the client has given consent to do so.
